```
<%=a0%> = active;
     <%=a0%>=theInterface.theNumber;
                  0: out
                                                                                             0: out
                   2: in
                                                                                              0: in <\%=a0\%> = \{\};
                                                                                      <%=a1%> = <%=a0%>; 2: out
         <%=a0%>['0'] = <%=a1%>;
                                                                                       <\%=a2\%> = <\%=a0\%>;
         <%=a0%>['1'] = <%=a2%>; 0: out
                                                                                       1: out
             1:in
    0: out
                                                                        0: in
                                                       2: in
                 if(<=a0> === active && <=a1>!==null && <=a1>!==undefined) {<=a3> = <=a1>(<=a2>);} <\%=a0\%> = 1;
                                                                1: in
                                                                            3: out
                                                               0: out
                                                                                                                   0: in <%=a0%> = addition;
                                                                                            if(<%=a0%> === active) {<%=a1%> = <%=a2%>;}
                                                                                                                1: out
                                                                                                                 0: in theInterface.theResult=<%=a0%>;
```